SUMMARY

I am a Statistics graduate from the University of Barishal with a strong foundation in statistical analysis, quantitative reasoning, and data management. My academic work has given me practical experience in collecting, cleaning, organizing, and analyzing both primary and secondary data. I have worked with Microsoft Excel, R, SPSS, and Python for data analysis, statistical modeling, visualization, and reporting. I have also developed skills in dashboard design and data presentation, and am currently expanding my capabilities through training in Advanced Excel, Power BI, SQL, and Python Data Analysis..

CAREER OBJECTIVE

To begin a career in the banking sector by applying my academic background in Statistics and practical experience in data collection, data cleaning, analysis, and reporting. Through an academic research project, I gained hands-on experience in collecting and analyzing primary data, while my thesis involved analyzing Bangladesh's banking sector using secondary data after cleaning, sorting, and preparing the dataset for statistical and econometric analysis. I have practical capabilities in Microsoft Excel, R, SPSS, Python, data visualization, and dashboard design, enabling me to work with large datasets, identify patterns and discrepancies, and prepare meaningful reports to support business and operational decisions.
